Rock Island resident Michelle Royal came up front to speak to Council. Ms. Royal said she was at the previous study session regarding the possibility of opening a cannabis cafe. She said she offered Council the opportunity to visit her business to discuss the information on the cafe, but no one came. She discussed her research of specific Illinois laws regarding the carrying of cannabis. She expressed the concern of Iowa residents not having an option to use her potential business, and that they may be breaking the law regardless of their actions on the Illinois side. She listed the benefits of having a cafe in the City, as it will bring money, attention, and tax dollars in. She reminded Council of past administrative decisions made by the City that may have been a mistake.

She directed a comment to Mayor Thoms, as they had an issue on television the previous week, and asked for a public apology. She stated she was a transgender woman and has been out for six years, and has used the associated pronouns as well. She said this is a learning point for remembering to use correct pronouns, and she acknowledged Mayor Thoms did publicly apologize via Facebook. Mayor Thoms said he publicly apologizes for his mistake and will work to be better. Ms. Royal said she encouraged everyone to become familiar with the pronouns of transgendered individuals, and to ask if they do not know. She again extended the offer for anyone wanting to learn more about the possible cafe to visit.

Alderman Parker followed up by saying since the previous study session, lounges or cafes have opened up both in DeKalb and Springfield. He reiterated that the City would then not be the first in the state to adopt such a business.

Brent Smith, who spoke on behalf of Brandon Albertson, owner of Brandon’s Pub and Grill of Rock Island, came up front. Data collected from the Census is vital information for your community leadres to make decisions like transportation, targeted community services, business development, and public safety. A fair and accurate count will not only protect Rock Island’s representation in Congress, but it will ensure that the City, schools, and nonprofits receive their fair share of federal dollars that will impact them for the next ten years. In mid-March, homes across the city will be receiving invitations to complete the 2020 Census. Once the invitation arrives, you should respond for your home in one of three ways: online, by phone, or by mail. Community organizations have volunteered to be community kiosks for residents who need assistance in filling out the census online. A directory listing locations and hours can be found at www.wecountqc.org. Events are being planned throughout the city, and Rock Island County in March and April to raise awareness and motivate every household to respond to the Census. Stay tuned! The Census only takes ten minutes to fill out. It’s easy, quick, and 100% confidential. Don’t miss your chance to participate in the nation’s largest peacekeeping mobilization, respond to the Census and be counted.

9. Mayor Thoms will close the regular meeting and open a Public Hearing regarding the First National Bank Landmarking Appeal.

Mayor Thoms closed the regular meeting and called for a Public Hearing. He asked for anyone opposed to the appeal to speak. Linda Anderson, speaking on behalf of Dr. Leslie Orion of the Rock Island Preservation Commission. Ms. Anderson asked Council to affirm the Commission’s designation of First National Bank as a landmark, as it meets the four criteria for a local landmark designation. She said the building is a significant part of the historic heritage of the community, and provided a brief history from its inception in 1852. She described the features of the building that make the building stand out, and the other buildings in the City that were designed by the same individuals. She discussed the impact of the possible National Register designation on the Downtown area. She finished by asking the Council to affirm the local landmark designation on behalf of the Preservation Society.

Mayor Thoms asked the owner of record to come forward. Jerry Lyphout, National Secretary and Chief Operations Officer of Modern Woodmen of America, thanked the Council for allowing him to appeal the Preservation Commission’s decision to designate the building in question as a historic landmark. He discussed the steps Modern Woodmen has taken with the building to assess the renovation and restoration of the building, including architectural firm Shive Hattery to assist in determining the historic significance with the building. He said the decision was made after considering those factors to tear the building down, with the intention of building on the property site with tenant space. If their arrangement with a third party does not succeed, the goal would be to have a parking lot on the property until a future building was planned. Mr. Lyphout said Modern Woodmen would like to expand, but they are limited in scope aside from the property in question. He noted that with many fraternal organizations failing, the goal through mergers and acquisitions would be to grow as a business and expand within the city of Rock Island.

Diane Oestreich, a representative from the Preservation Commission came forward in opposition. She asked Council to consider waiting to make the decision until a plan is in place to possibly use the building instead of destruction. She contended that the estimate of replacing items mentioned by Mr. Lyphout were standard maintenance after fifty years. She provided additional information about her knowledge of what has already taken place for demolition within the building, as well as pointing out the information in the agenda regarding the significance of it. She again encouraged Council to defer the decision, as Modern Woodmen could come back for a certificate of economic hardship, and there had only been speculation regarding the future of the site with no current plan. She pointed out that the City has always been very good to Modern Woodmen.

Ms. Anderson returned to the front for a closing statement. She thanked Staff and Council members for supporting the Commission’s measure when the building was up for the National Register for Historic Places. She discussed the value of the building to the City and the value of the City’s historical assets as well as the value of keeping historic items alive in the City.

Mr. Lyphout returned to the front for a closing statement. He thanked Council and advised them that Valley Construction also does new construction as well as demolition. He said the building was intended to last for decades and not centuries, and if the building had been on their regular campus, changes or demolition wouldn’t be a question. He finished by saying the building in question is no longer sound based on what is needed today.

Alderman Parker asked Mr. Lyphout what the need is for it to be done now, and if there was anything that would prohibit an agreement with new tenants from going forward. Mr. Lyphout said it costs $300,000 a year to keep the building up as is. He added that the third party they have had discussions with has serious intent, and in order to move forward with that party, Modern Woodmen needs to move forward with the building as well. Alderman Parker said he wanted Mr. Lyphout to understand the concern of having the space turned into a parking lot, as well as asking citizens to trust that new construction would occur. He said he hopes the location will be a positive tool for economic development, and even with the building being noted for landmark approval, he will trust Modern Woodmen to work together with the City to make sure a building will be on the site in the future.

Mr. Lyphout said Modern Woodmen will continue to collaborate with the City, and they want to see the City thrive. He said once a building is there, the City will benefit more than it currently does, as a new building will be worth more, and thus will bring greater tax revenue. He said the current assessed value of the building is $1.8 million, and a new building would be worth at least $28 million. He said Modern Woodmen has committed to not put any more money into that building and if the building is not taken down, it will be a boarded facility and the value will continue to decline.

Mayor Thoms closed the public meeting and reopened the regular meeting.

Alderman Hurt moved to overturn the Historic Preservation Commission’s designation of the First National Bank Building at 100 17th Street as a local landmark under the Historic Preservation Ordinance; Alderman Poulos seconded.

Motion passed on a 7-0-0 roll call vote. Aye: Poulos, Geenen, Clark, Hurt, Spurgetis, Swanson, and Parker. Nay: None. Absent: None.

MOTION:

Alderman Parker moved to approve the contract and direct the City Manager to execute the agreement subject to minor attorney modification; Alderwoman Swanson seconded.

Alderman Poulos asked City Manager Randy Tweet for assurances that taxes would not be increased next year as a result of this contract. Mr. Tweet replied that the money for this has already been expended or is expected to be expended. He added that part of the funding will come from utility bills, which will be lowered as a result of the project, as well as service and maintenance contracts that will no longer be needed due to equipment upgrades. Also, funding will come from the Capital Improvement Project budget and expected future CIP budgets, which represent allocations from sewer and water bills as well as gaming funds. Mr. Tweet said the savings on maintenance staff could not be quantified, as capturing the time and manpower needed to repair will allow those services to be allocated elsewhere.

Alderman Spurgetis asked about financing for the project, and if the City will borrow money for the project. Finance Director Stephanie Masson discussed the options for financing. She said one option is a tax exempt lease purchase, and another is the issuance of bonds, which would yield a lower cost of borrowing over time. She said the latter option is likely the direction to go if the vote passes, and the approximate amount would be $13 million, and the payments would come from the savings identified by the other expenditures that will not be spent as a result of the project. Alderman Spurgetis asked about the actual dollars for the project, as well as the project contingency of $200,000 listed. Ms. Masson explained the disbursement of funds, including a $6.9 million initial payment, with the remainder to be dispersed during the project. Alderman Spurgetis questioned the wording of the contract regarding a lump sum payment. Ms. Masson said this change can be looked at under minor attorney modifications. Ms. Masson said the contingency fund would cover unexpected repairs that may be needed in those projects.

Alderman Parker said he is excited for the project, and reviewed the changes that will result. He asked when the last repair or replacement of HVAC occcured in City Hall. Mr. Tweet replied that it was likely since the building was erected. Alderman Parker reiterated the savings and benefits of the project, which include environmental aspects and historical preservation efforts.

He added that the update is intended to make the document easier to understand, make it easier for residents to take advantage of the ordinance, and provide the opportunity to ask for an exemption. Residents can appeal staff’s decision through the Planning Commission to approve the application with a special exemption. Alderman Parker said he is currently an applicant, and asked if it would be ok for him to vote on the agenda item. City Attorney Dave Morrison confirmed that he would be ok to vote.

Alderwoman Swanson expressed concern for those that have allergies to bee stings, and whether or not this measure would protect these citizens in any way. Mr. Brainard said other municipalities have entertained the same type of question, but that the honeybee is bred to be docile. He said the beekeeping practice already takes place within the City, but the purpose of the ordinance is to standardize the way residents should keep bees, which would reduce conflicts.
